London, May 11, 1769

My Dear Brother,

Yours of 15 May, Oc<sup>ber</sup> 23, Jan 5 & March 21, all came duly to hand to which I have not answered, my health for some time being so poorly that I have hardly any Speredts to do it. I am sorry to understand by yours that you don't enjoy your health, we must both submit to the will of God – with patience. My Doughter, Son and Children are well and desire to be kindly remebered to you, and I parteqular, and bag you would excuse my not writing so often as I should. I have paid the Bill you drew on me p £45 payable to Franks, and as I had payed £11.2 to Hayman levi afore, when you draw next for your anuity you will make it only £33.18, which will bring it write to the sum of £45. I have considered about the recit you desiar me to write and send for you to sine. I think if you write upon the back of the acon<sup>ts</sup> I sent you the enclosed copy and Sign by you and sent to me by the first oportunetty, it will do; these I do that when plese God to take way, there may not be the lest room for disput of nether side, which is all my aim. I hope thow I have been neglectfull in not writing to you that you will not deprive me of hearing from you by all the oportunets that offert, wicking you health and hapeness, I remaine and am, Deares Brother,

You loveing Sister,
Rebecca Mendes Seixas
